

The 7th Annual Emory Eye Center Southeastern Ocular Oncology Pathology Seminar (SEOP)

Friday, September 29, 2017

General Information

We would like to invite you to the 7th Annual Emory Eye Center Southeastern Ocular Oncology and Pathology (SEOP) Seminar, which will take place all day, 8 am to 5 pm, on Friday, September 29, 2017 in the Calhoun Auditorium and Learning Resources Center of the Emory Eye Center. The address is 1365 Clifton Rd., Clinic B, and T-Level.

The Southeastern Ocular Oncology and Pathology (SEOP) seminar offers attendees an informal, collegial atmosphere in which participants bring case presentations and brief topics for discussion. These cases and topics are related to: 1) ocular melanoma and other adult intraocular tumors; 2) retinoblastoma and other pediatric intraocular tumors; 3) conjunctival and ocular surface tumors; and 4) eyelid and orbital tumors. The seminar is centered on clinical diagnosis, management, pathology and related topics.

Faculty

We are delighted to announce that Jerry Shields, MD will be our keynote speaker and deliver the Calhoun Lecture. Dr. Shields is the Director of the Ocular Oncology Service at Wills Eye Hospital in Philadelphia, PA. Shields will present interesting cases for discussion and help discuss other cases presented. Emory's distinguished faculty in Ophthalmology will present interesting cases of their own for discussion and help discuss other cases presented.

Target Audience

The Southeastern Ocular Oncology Pathology seminar will benefit anyone working with ocular melanoma and other intraocular tumors, retinoblastoma, conjunctival and ocular surface tumors and eyelid/orbital tumors, including ophthalmologists, oncologists, advanced care practitioners, and trainees in each of these areas.

Tuition

The registration fee for this meeting is $250 and for this, the meeting, coffee breaks, lunch, and CME credit will be provided. Please register by September 11, 2017.

Accommodations
